The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These besides his extensive library or legal and unchanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superor facilities for oblaining patents.

My father and inyself spent not less than two hundred and fifty dollars for a cure, but all in vain. Although we employed six of the best physicians in this city at different times, they used all the skill in their power, but to no purpose; so in famed were my eyelids that all my eyelashes eams out. W. CLOTHING CHEAP, -ONE PRICE. OME years since, I advertised that I would abandon the credit system as a rule, which so far as adhered to, has proved satisfactory to myself, and without doubt a real loenest to my customers. There are two obvious reasons for this change. First the great annoyance in collecting or trying to collect bitls. Second the frequent and great losses, amounting to hundreds of dollars annually, which losses, in part at least, I prefer to take from my profits and give to my cash paying customers. To this end I have now adopted the one price, and more strictly cash system, and as I buy my goods for cash at lowest prices and mark them cor respondingly low, I trust the purchasing public will be pleased as well as benefited by this new arrangement.

WINNING A WIFE.

(Concluded.)

"What is to be done?" urged Merton, uxpostulating with the ladies in a private conference. "I solumnly aver that I have done everything in my power to conciliate the squire's estem, and to deserve his friendship. I have tamed his most mruly horses. I have, more than once during our sparring exercises, caused bim to adopt an involuntarily horizontal position, and I have seen him descend under the horison of the table in all the glery of a setting sun. Cun I do more?"

All this, it must be confessed, appeared

All this, it must be confessed, appeared reasonable and consoletary enough, at least so far as they afforded evidence of our lover's unchanging affection; and each party was fain to wait patiently for a few weeks longer, till some more auspicious opportunity of compelling the squire to the spirit and letter of his agreement should occur. But the squire grew more inflexible daily. He had become attached to his source fixed and forecase attached to his young friend, and foresaw plainly that his union would cause an instant and final cesattion of the agreeable course of umuse-ments and companionship, without which he verily believed he should not be able to exist. He sought, therefore, to put off the evil day to an indefinite period, and was impracticably impatient of any allu-sion to the subject. sion to the subject.

It became at length too evident to Merton that steps must be taken torthwith to obeck the over-weening self-will of the squire, and that such remonstrances should be made as would effectually conduce to the end he had originally proposed to him-self in his visit to Harbottle Court. Preparatory, however, to the discussion of the matter, he took the opportunity one morning, when they were exercising themselves in sparring; to deliver such a blow at the old gentleman's ribs as could by no ingenative bolikened to anything more nearly, a sledge-hammer; and having enjoyed for a few momenta a bird's-eye view of his prostrate antagonist, our gratified boxer betook himself to the breakfast-table. Im-mediately after the conclusion of the meal, a propitious silence having presented itsel', the youth lifted up his heart and voice, and with much gravity delivered himself as

"Squire Harbottle, I beg you to bear in mind the purpose for which I came down,"
"What do you muon, my dear fellow—what are you aiming at p" said Harbottle, in appraise.

in surprise.

"My meaning, squire, ought to be instantineously obvious—your daughter, sir ..."

"No, no, my good lad, not a word about it, I insist a lad of your spirit—I am surprised!"

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

No public man has ever pursued a more suicidal course than has the Senator from Illinois. In the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, he sought to conciliate the South, and then to propitiate the North and especially the people of Illinois, he was forced to resist the Kansas policy of the administration, and to revive and endeavor to give undue significance to the obsolete doctrines of General Class in relation "Squatter Soverignty." He has tried to serve two masters and has offended both.

At the South, where the Democratic party have the votes, he is despised, and detested, and, at the North, where his party have no strength, while the mob adhere to him with more or less tenseity, the men of position and character in his party regard him as a mere adventurer, a soldier of fortune, entitled to no more consideration than Central America Walker. The whole of his theory in relation to what he calls popular Soveriguty, is evidently a sham .--A fraud upon its very face. An ill-construted and gause-like fraud which any intelligent man can see through at once.

It is all based upon the difference between a dicta and a decision. The Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case said in effect that there can be no such thing as Douglas calls popular Soverignty. But Douglas says that, that was not an authoritive decision, but when that tribunal made a decision against decision and abandon this child of General Cass' which he has adopted, SLAVERY.

Is human slavery a ourse, or a blessing? The North says that it is a curse, while the South says that it is a blessing. The North depresate the extension of the curse, and the South urge the spread of the blessing. Here the parties take issue. Both parties argue that the territory of the United States belong in common to all the States, and that each state has equal rights in the common property. But the Northern members of the firm say that slavery is both wrong an inexpedient and that they do not wish to introduce this element into their business, because, they do not wish to take upon their hands the sin of this great crime against humanity. That they have nothing to the do with slavery where " ozista, but

... mey are called upon by their Southern brethren to extend it, that they refuse to lend their aid for this purpose. The South say that slavery must be carried into the territories or the Union must be dissolved. The North rejoins that the South has no right to dissolve the union without the consent of the North so long as the North fulfills its constitutional obligations to the South, and that the Supremo Court of the United States is the last arbiter of what those obligations are.

Terrible Shipwreck!!

On Tuesday, the 9th inst., as the staunch ship "Republican," Curtin Commander, was passing under full press of sail and a power of 30,000 besides, to varids her destined port, she came in collision with the hermaphrodite brig, "Fusion," on her way to salt river. The brig was struck amidships, breaking in the whole broadside and sinking her in a short time. The Fusion was a new concern, made up of two or three old hulks whose timbers were more or less rotten when used, and the vessel was destitute of a regular captain. A few of the officers got ashore on pieces of the wreck. It is auspected that a large purt of those on board were drunk, as there was a strong smell of "Old Ryo" perrading the atmosphere at the time.

Verdict of the coroner's lury. "Whom the gods will to destroy they first make mad."

Breckinridge is said to be in wretched health. He is pining and wasting away under the effects of a singular depression. He seems ten years older than he did last spring.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS. OCTOBER TERM-1860. SHEARMAN J.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 17. John H. Clegg vs. Robert Scatte. This is an action for an alleged false return on a writ sued against plaintiff, and which plaintiff endeavored to establish was not duly served upon him. This action was entered April Term 1860, and has been tried twice, and the Jury unable to agree. The original writ was sued out of the Justice's Court of this City, for a claim of Earl P. Mason & Co., of Providence, and on the first day of September A. D. 1857, Clegg as defendant, was called before the said Court and defaulted for non-appearance, and judgment given against him for $18,-52ats. debt, and $6,85 cts. costs. Execution was issued and Mr. Clegg was arrested by the then Sheriff Lake, committed to jail and remained there about six hours, when he was released upon a Jail Bond, with sureties, upon which bond suit was brought and judgment recovered at this term for the full amount thereof, and also a judgment for the debt was rendered against the plaintiff, and in favor of Earl P. Mason & Co. John H. Clegg being sworn. declared to the following averments in reof which the suit was brought: That he costs. Sheffield and White for plaintiff. was in the habit of trading with Earl P. Mason & Co., for dye stuffs, that the debt in question was incurred about four years since, and that the stuffs purchased then, were of an inferior quality, causing him great trouble and loss of labor and material, and he refused to pay the claim without a deduction satisfactory to bimself, that the claim was sent to Mr. Van Zandt for collection, that he (Clegg) was notified to that effect and Mr. Van Zandt offered to deduct five dollars from the account, and that he (Clegg) refused to pay unless with a larger deduction, and was threatened ne his counsel and informed him that he expected to be sued soon, and Mr. Shefand have the suit deferred until after the field's testimony agreed in some points ant. with that of the plaintiff. The plaintiff further swore that on the 25th day of August A. D. 1867, on Tuesday, the opening day of the Supreme Court, he came to the Court House, and it being nine o'clock, and the Court not meeting until 10 o'clock he sauntered out upon the parade and met Mr. Scatle coming out of the Park, with some law-books under his arm, that Mr. Seatle said to him, Mr. Clegg I have got a paper for you in my hat, that he (Clegg) sidering the short time they have been in inquired who is it from ! that Me. Scatte said, from Mr. Van Zandt, that he (Clegg) replied, what about it, and Mr. Seatle said.

'I will see Mr. Vau Zandt about it." That he saw Mr. Seatle again in the afternoon of the same day and he said he had not seen Mr. Van Zandt-that or the Tuesday following (the return day of the writ) he was away from home all the morning and on his return, was informed by his wife that Mr. Seatle had been there after him to attend Court, that he went down immediately after dinner to Mr. Gilpin's office the presiding Justice of the Court, to see what it all meant, and was informed by him that judgment had been given against him that morning in the Court, in favor of Earl P. Mason & Co., that afterwards Mr. Sheffield ondeavored to have the judgment revoked for the purposes of defence, and that he was unable to do so. above two interviews that he had with Officer Seatle in revent.

to the service of racess, that could be have known the return day of the writ he could have made and should have made a valid defence, and claims damages accordingly. Mr. Seatle being sworn testified for the defence, substantially as follows:

Earl P. Mason and Co. and returnable to the Court of Justices, that after receiving the writ, he saw Mr. Clegg at the Steam-Boat landing at the head of the Long Wharf, where it is the duty of Mr. Seade to severy evening, in his capacity as a City of severy evening, in his capacity as a City of the Texas treaty of approach to the Texas treaty of approach of the Texas treaty of approach. Officer-that on seeing Mr. Clegg then he informed him that he (Seatle) had a writ against him and in favor of Earl P. Mason & Co., and stated to him distinctly the day of the return of the writ, that Mr. Clegg said he knew atl about it, and that he had a valid defence and that I s intended to defend the case and to appeal it-did not read the writ, not being requested to do so, and it being rather dark to do so conveniently but that he stated the important points of the writ to the Plaintiff who seemed to be more familiar with them than he (Sentle). That Mr. Clegg also at the time, spoke concerning bail—and said he was not obliged to give bail, as he was a freeholders. That he (Seatle) did not conclude to urge the matter, of bail at that time, and was himself willing; o be considered as bail for Clegg. That soon afterwards, and between the aforesaid service, and the day of the return, of the writ, he (Seatle) met Clegg on the Parade, and that he was taking some books to the Court concluded about the bail-that he (Seatle) replied I can not attend to it now, as I am in a great horry - that this was the only two interviews in regard to the writ, and these facts were very positively averied by the Defendant (Seatle).

Mr. Peckhem made a most able plea to make out the plaintiff's case, and was regarded by those present as a very strong earnest of the high promises for honor and mefulness in his profession, which are entertained by the community. Mr. Van Zandt's kappy manner need hardly be recalled, and his defence was exceedingly able and effective. The case was closed at 5 o'clock, and the Jury after being out about thirty minutes, returned a verdict for the defendant, that he was not guilty in manner and form as laid in the plaintiff's declaration.

WIDE AWAKE POLITICS.

It is the old story.—The Philadelphia North American quoted from a political document issued by the Louisiana democruts in 1844, when they carried the State by the Plaquemines fraud. The quotation The plaintiff swore very positively that the sounds very natural ites, and might be younger by sixteen years than it is. It is as follows:-

" If Mr. Clay is elected, we can fold our arms and say all is lost, all is gone. A few facts submitted to the people would prove this. Let them bear in mind that Mr. Clay is the great friend and defender of England and of English hellish designs. England has proclaimed to the world her positive tantially as follows:

That a writ was placed in his hands for eatisfied, cost what it may, until she shall service against Mr. Clogg and in favor of bave liberated the very last of our slaves. opponents of the Texas treaty of annexation, Mr. Clay at their head."

> The Governor of Arkansas Elias N. Conway, has issued a proclamation to the militia of the State, directing them " to prepare for trouble and danger. In this remarkable document, Governor Conway expresses the singular belief that the peril of the South comes, not from the North, but from the machinations of Great Britain. Не заув :

> "It is my opinion that the British overnment is the real author and instigator of the mischiefs and outrages perpetra-ted against the slave States, and that it is the duty of our federal government, and of the patriotic people of the United States, to hold the British government responsible for distuibing, the domestic tranquility of the United States.

1 How does it happen that the Governor omits an expression of belief that the visit of the Prince of Wales has some connection . with the dishelical plot?
